Religious Education
"Helping Restless Teens to Focus on Faith – Part 2 of 3"

Catechists and Catholic-school teachers frustrated by the growing problem of teenage distractibility are scrambling to innovate, in an effort to make contact with a challenging population. Meanwhile, some have made the mistake of becoming too reliant on videos and other forms of electronic entertainment for bridging the gap. The answer, according to two educators at a top-tier Catholic high school, is to strike a balance between technology and human interaction.

Technology is a great aid, a great tool but it's not the end-all and be-all. The end-all and be-all is the interaction between the student and the teacher. Kids do their best work with a spiral notebook and a pen. That said, technology can help along the way. We need to integrate technology into education. The kids are entrenched in media, so we need to meet them where they're at – we need to meet them in their world.

The marriage of human contact and technology helps teens to stay focused. It is easier for them to stay on point if they are switching back and forth between stimuli. An important point to remember: "A large number don't like to write. So, if they write something down, they actually care about it. Once they have done the reflecting and writing, they are much more inclined to talk. If they don't write and reflect first, they are more impulsive in what they think and say, and it's less substantive. They just blurt things out." (Our Sunday Visitor, Lisa Mladinich)

Please continue to keep the children, their families and teachers in your prayers as they continue the Faith Formation of our parish children.

Upcoming Events:
Sunday School (K3 thru GR12): Classes - Jan. 31; Feb. 7, 21, 28. No class Feb. 14 (President's Day)

Resurrection and the Afterlife in the New Testament St. Monica Room

Central to our Christian faith is a belief in the resurrection of the dead and the life of the world to come. Dr. Candida Moss, noted Professor of New Testament and Early Christianity at the University of Notre Dame, helps us understand the significance of that belief. On January 31, we will discuss *Revelation 3: The Heavenly Jerusalem. Facilitated by Sonya Phillips and Mike Brown.

Scripture in "Action" St. Elizabeth Room

Weekly gatherings discuss the current week's readings and how the words of Scripture speak to us. Help share in gaining a better understanding of God's message in Scripture as we discuss the Sunday readings, how they relate to us today, and seek ways to apply God's message in our daily lives. Led by Tom & Elsbeth Germanson.

Ministry to the Sick: Volunteers Needed

The Catechism of the Catholic Church states the priority with which Jesus held the care of the sick and dying as a component of his ministry and life: Christ's compassion toward the sick and his many healings of every kind of infirmity are a resplendent sign that 'God has visited his people' (Luke 7:16).

If you feel a calling to be a Minister to the sick and deliver the Eucharist to those who cannot come to be fed, now is the time to answer this call to action. For more information e-mail, outreach@popcatholic.org or call Stacey Fitch 822-9125 ex.43.

A Look Back

Evangelium Vitae – Gospel of Life, 1995

The Gospel of life is for the whole of human society. To be actively pro-life is to contribute to the renewal of society through the promotion of the common good. It is impossible to further the common good without acknowledging and defending the right to life, upon which all the other inalienable rights of individuals are founded and from which they develop. A society lacks solid foundations when, on the one hand, it asserts values such as the dignity of the person, justice and peace, but then, on the other hand, radically acts to the contrary by allowing or tolerating a variety of ways in which human life is devalued and violated, especially where it is weak or marginalized. Only respect for life can be the foundation and guarantee of the most precious and essential goods of society, such as democracy and peace
