

2011 Agency of the Year

MN Independent Insurance
Agents & Brokers Association

Associated Insurance Agents, Inc.

Excerpts from the award presentation for the Agency of the Year... This year's Agency of the Year award is going to a special agency with a long legacy in the insurance industry. Their agency is a major supporter of the association and their charitable work in their community is relentless.

This Twin Cities agency is dedicated to its position as a full service independent agency offering a broad range of insurance products to its customers since it was established. This agency is committed to establishing and maintaining a relationship of mutual trust, quality products and service with each of its customers and with each of the companies it represents. In the time of loss, agencies like this are advocates for their clients, large and small. Most recently one of their clients, the Minneapolis Metrodome's roof collapsed, making national news. You can only imagine the complications of a loss such as this, during their season. Finally, things like agency expertise and relationships with their insurance companies and insured's, claims are being settled and the clients are extremely satisfied with their professional claims response.

Nominated by Western National Insurance Company's David Eide, he expressed to the association that, "This agency is one of the most professional agencies we have in our agency force. Their dedication to their customers, their local communities and the charities they support, and to their insurance carriers is above reproach. We wish all of our agencies could be as professional as they are."

It is our pleasure to award the 2011 Agency of the Year Award to Associated Insurance Agents of Brooklyn Park, MN.
