Early in 2013 the Bentonville church sent two separate teams of local missionaries to Haiti to benefit the saints there. A medical team went to an underserved area in the north central mountains to provide care to hundreds of people who needed our services. They provided medical and eye care in the community of Lalomas in support of the local congregation. The following week, a team of men went to the Port-au-Prince area and built a 192 square foot cinder block house for a family in a community known as Canaan 3, a tent city on the mountainside made up of families displaced by the earthquake of 2010. The house was built for a family of 5 who had been living in a makeshift tent for three years after losing their home in the earthquake. It was truly a blessing for the family and our team as well.

We will be returning this coming January with a combined team of 20+ people to once again serve the Christians of Haiti. Our team will consist of three specialty teams: a medical team, construction team, and a food distribution/evangelism team. Our efforts are growing through your support to reach more and more Haitians to further meet their physical and spiritual needs.

The people of Haiti are a great people and deserving of our respect and aid. They are a nation that has overcome overwhelming odds to even exist, in spite of the struggles and limitations they face daily. They are a people who truly understand God’s grace and the blessings that come from Him, as minimal as they may seem presently. They especially understand and are grateful for the blessing He promises to bestow upon them after their life of struggles on Earth and their island in the Caribbean is over.
