

Thoughts for My Good

I have this problem. I always underestimate God's love for me. The Bible says that His thoughts about me are more numerous than the sands of the seashore. And He also says that every single one of those thoughts is a thought for my good.

Now that doesn't mean that I always understand what God's up to. Astronomers have pointed out that some galaxies are over 12 billion light years away from planet earth. The light from these galaxies, therefore, require 12 billion years to reach me, even though the light is traveling at 186,000 miles per second.

God tells us that His thoughts are as high above ours as the heavens are above the earth. That means that on my very best day, my understanding of God's love falls short by at least 12 billion light years.

The only thing I can do is grasp what the Bible reveals, and live life in full celebration of God's eternal love for me. God thinks about you all the time, and all His thoughts are for your good!

Remember, Life Matters, and so do you!
