

Who Do You Think You Are?

Are you related to anyone famous?

John Wayne was a descendant of Johnny Appleseed, and Tom Hanks' family tree can be traced back to Abraham Lincoln. Tom is Honest Abe's third cousin, four times removed.

I found out that my Great-Great-Grandpa, Amaziah Lee, was from the Lees of Virginia—as in Robert E. Lee—but alas, it appears we were the poor Lees from the other side of the State.

But I do have one prestigious connection; maybe you have it, too. The Gospel of John tells us that Jesus left heaven and came in the flesh to planet earth. In the first chapter of his gospel, John tells us that when Jesus came not everyone accepted Him. But, “to everyone who did receive Him, to them He gave the power to become the children of God.” And that, my friend, is a family connection available to everyone.
