

News from the Third Grade Think Tank

Week of April 10, 2017

This week in....

Bible

This week we will be talking about the Easter story. Because of our short week we will not be working on a specific verse or having a Bible quiz.

Reading

We will be finishing Charlotte's Web, Trumpet of the Swan, and Stuart Little mid-week. The students will be discussing the last few chapters on Tuesday and Wednesday, then we will watch the movie version of Charlotte's Web and compare/contrast the movie, book, and theater versions of the story. Next week, they will start working on a final group project.

Remaining chapters and responses due by Wednesday

Spelling

Lesson 30 is about plural nouns. Again, because of the short week and our field trip on Monday we will be working on the skill but will not have a pretest or final test over the words this week.

English/Writing Workshop

We will be starting a poetry unit next week to celebrate National Poetry Month. Each student will have a packet highlighting many of the different skills used in poetry and with different types of poetry to practice.

Social Studies/Science

We are finishing up our Social Studies curriculum this week. We will be reading through Chapters 9-11 and working on the lesson guides in class.

Math

We will be starting a short unit on Time this week.

Please continue to study facts 0-9 in both multiplication and division every day, even for just a few minutes. Don't forget to watch your child's progress toward our new Memory Mastery goal working toward an ice cream party at the end of the year. Students must pass timed tests from multiply by 2 to multiply by 9.
