

KINDERGARTEN UPDATE

Welcome Back!

Nat Hill was our Ringleader this week. Nat brings so much enthusiasm to class, and we have thoroughly enjoyed his presentations! The Mario Brothers day was especially informative for me.

I hope that you have noticed the small readers coming home each night with your kindergarten student. We have officially started reading groups! On the back of each reader, I have written what we read in class on that day. Please re-read those same pages with your child that evening. Once the students have read all the way through the reader with me, twice, they can keep it! The students pick out a sticker for his/her reader at completion.

I am so pleased with our class this week! We have had such a great week, which is especially impressive since we are coming off of a week-long break! I also doubled up on math lessons, two different days, and they did not skip a beat! I am quite proud of these kiddos!
