

3 signs you need a new job.

- 1. Time Isn't Flying The old saying is true: time flies when you're having fun. If you're constantly monitoring the clock, or find yourself looking forward to the weekend a little too much, it may be time to look for a new job. When you enjoy what you're doing, you tend to lose track of time. Shocking as it may seem, some people actually love their jobs (and don't stare at the clock)! It's time to become one of those people.
- 2. Staying late, starting early, or working on special projects annoys you. Another symptom of hating your job is an excessive fear of anything beyond the bare minimum. Remember the scene from Office Space where Jennifer Aniston is pressured by her boss into wearing a few more buttons on her waitress uniform? Because she hates her job, doing anything more than the bare minimum seems like torture. If you become depressed having to wake up early every once in a while for your job, it may be time to start looking for something new. Believe it or not, people who love their jobs sometimes get excited for early morning meetings-free donuts and coffee anyone?
- 3. You're reading this. Let's face it, if you're checking out Employment Plus and reading guides like this one, you're probably not perfectly content in your current position. Trust your intuition!

Employment plus

