Wyatt Krejce was born on January 17, 2012 and spent his first week of life in the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit at Children's Hospital in St. Paul. It took five months and countless medical visits before genetic testing confirmed that Wyatt has an extremely rare genetic condition called Cardiofaciocutaneous (CFC) syndrome. CFC is made up of a variety of symptoms, there is no known cure for CFC. Currently Wyatt suffers from a seizure disorder known as Infantile Spasms; Cardiomyopathy, meaning the walls of his heart are thicker than they should be; a hearing impairment for which he wears hearing aids; feeding difficulties; growth deficiency; hypotonia (low muscle tone); cognitive impairment; and developmental delays. He has spent a significant amount of time in the hospital and sees a variety of medical specialists to treat each symptom as it presents. To learn more about Wyatt's condition visit: www.cfcsyndrome.org Wyatt's future is uncertain. Family and friends of the Krejce's have organized this benefit to help ease the strain of lost wages and mounting medical bills. Our WISH FOR WYATT is that ongoing medical support and early intervention therapies will allow him to reach his full potential.
