

The Message—Pastor Rickey Wade

Faith II

Last week I discussed the notion that faith (believe) is both a matter of the mind and of daily living. The point being that what we believe shapes how we live. As such, our faith in Christ is an understanding of Jesus, yes, but it is more. Our faith in Christ is also the power to live in a way that imitates Jesus, and allows us to claim the name of Christian!

Allow me to illustrate the notion of faith as being both an understanding and an action: Say for instance that you are walking across a large field with which you are not familiar. This particular field is slightly rolling, and as such, each side of the field rolls over the hill out of sight. Now imagine that you are walking across the middle of this field, planning to travel from one side to the other. As you do, in the middle of the field you come upon a row of small posts. As you look to your right, the posts vanish over the hill; as you look to your left, the posts also vanish. A closer look reveals that to each post is attached a small yellow plastic device of some sort, and a bare wire is running through the yellow device from post to post. Each post has four of the yellow devices evenly spaced from top to bottom, and likewise, there are four strands of bare wire. Remember, these posts and wires disappear over the rise to each side. As you look, you see no gate, and the top strand is about waist high. Also, remember, you want to cross this field!

What will you do? Do you reach down with a bare hand, take hold of the top strand, and simply lift your leg over? Think about it! If you’re reading this, and you’re farm folk, my guess is that you will not take hold of that top strand. Why would you not take hold? Because you believe this to be an electric fence, it could be hot, and it will most likely shock you, but good! You see, you don’t know if it is hot, but you believe it could be – what you believe about an electric fence has just been displayed by your actions!

Likewise, what we know (or don’t know) of Jesus shapes our actions. When we know Jesus to be the Son of God, the Savior of the world, the sacrifice for our sin, and the power over death, we begin to act in ways different from those who do not know, or at least, do not believe such to be true.

You see, faith is real; its power to change lives is also real! Sometimes it comes to us in large measure and we see drastic change in our life, or the lives of others. Sometimes faith comes to us in small doses over a lifetime. Sometimes it does both.

*God bless,
Brother Rickey*

First Light & Outreach Ministry—Jeff Harrison

Hey Everyone,

We will be making a change to the First Light order of worship very soon. We feel that it would be great to offer prayer at the end of each service, not as an altar call, but as a chance to minister to people through prayer. I know that when I have responded to God speaking to my heart, real lasting change has happened when I have told someone and they have prayed with and for me. If you would like to serve First Light in this way, please contact me. We will have teams of people every week who are ready and willing to minister in this way.

*In Christ,
Jeff*

Missions Moment—Holt Cason

One of the more meaningful passages in the Bible that reflects Volunteers in Missions comes from Luke 10 where Jesus anointed 72 disciples and told them; "The harvest is plentiful, but the workers are few. Ask the Lord of the harvest, therefore, to send out workers into his harvest field." There is always plenty to do and people to witness to throughout the world. Local congregations can help by becoming a supporting church and/or a sending church. It begins with prayer for guidance and finances to support the mission.
