I Can't Stand My Kids' Music!

by Trevor Waybright

I fancy myself a fairly open-minded person. I can take many different opinions, theological views, political perspectives, and church styles. I can sit in a room with someone with whom I have very little in common and appreciate their point of view. I can disagree with someone and still shake their hand and truly appreciate where they are coming from. I'm easy...I thought. Then my kids started listening to their generation's music. Now, I use the term 'music' loosely because, quite honestly, I just don't get it. It drives me crazy! It evokes a visceral reaction within me that causes me to bristle the same as if nails were slowly making their way down a chalk-board. I have found where my 'open-mindedness' has met it's match. I also remember my parents reacting the exact same way to what I now cherish as 'real music'.

I was fixing my coffee a few mornings ago and my son was getting ready for the day. His music was blaring from the upstairs bathroom. The more I heard the beat and the style the more I had to swallow the inevitable yell that was trying to make its way from very deep inside of me to 'turn that down!'. Then it hit me like a brick. I'm my mom and dad! What happened? I was never supposed to be like that! As a matter of fact, I loudly voiced that I would never be like that, yet here I am.

The truth is that each generation has to find their way and their voice. They are seeing and reacting to the previous generation and navigating this world just like every generation before them, and that's a good thing. If we are to effectively teach the generation(s) that follow us we need to give them space to figure life out and find their voice. We can't force them to be like we are and like what we like. We can't teach them anything as long as we are trying to conform them to fit in to what we perceive as 'the good ole days'. The Bible clearly teaches that we are to teach the next generation about God and His love, but, if we're not careful, we can get caught up in trying to make them into us instead of into Christ-followers.

It Always Amazes Me

how powerful it is when God uses the passions he has already created in us to draw us to Himself. That is what FCA is all about...God using people's passion for sports and competition, to draw them to Himself.

This past year we were blessed to witness God demonstrate this in so many lives. He used the passion for their sport, their desire to improve, and their drive to succeed to open pathways to reveal to their hearts their need for the Savior. The story below is a real example of just that.

It begins with a young a middle-schooler with a passion for baseball, who was invited by a friend to attend an FCA huddle at his school. As this boy began attending the FCA ministry week after week, he heard his peers share their faith and learned about Jesus. Soon he too came to the realization that he needed Jesus, and accepted the grace and forgiveness He offered, making Him lord of his life. Praise God! But the story doesn't end there. The young baseball'r began attending a local church and continued to participate with FCA at school. The change in the life of their son didn't go unnoticed by his parents. Dad, a fairly well known and accomplished baseball coach, in-particular became aware of his son's transformation. As the school year was coming to an end, this aspiring baseball player expressed his desire to attend our FCA sports camp. Dad, already intrigued by the impact FCA was having on his son, sought out our head baseball clinician Sean Rooney, and asked if he could be a part of the coaching staff for the week at camp as well. Coach Rooney questioned the father as to his beliefs and was informed in very clear and emphatic terms that he was not a Christian and although he allowed for the possibility that there was a God, he did not believe in Jesus, at all, period, end of story. After prayerfully considering whether or not it was wise to permit a non-believing coach to serve at camp, our Coach Rooney felt led by the Spirit to allow this dad to attend the afternoon clinical sessions, in a limited coaching capacity. After the first afternoon the boy's father was so impressed with the environment and what he was witnessing, he began to ask questions of the coaching staff about just what is was that made this so different. Coach Rooney suggested that he attend the evening all camp chapel and hear more, so he did; and then again on the second night, and the third, and on the final night the conviction of the Holy Spirit became so great on his heart that he stepped out and ask Jesus to forgive his sins and come into his life and reign as his Savior and Lord!

Praise Jesus for this victory! And, praise God for the shared passion for baseball that this father and son had! Now in addition they also share a common eternal destiny through their faith in Christ.

I love to share this story because it illustrates what can happen when God uses our passion for sport to draw us to the saving knowledge of Jesus! And because it shows how the different ministry efforts of FCA intersect.

There are so many stories like this from this past year. It blows my mind to think that God has been using this ministry in this way for over 65 years! Oh, the lives that have been changed! and Oh the lives that will be changed as we continue our efforts to use the platform of sport to reach the lost and fulfill the great commission -to go and make disciples.

God has graciously allowed us to be a part of His amazing plan of redemption. Thank you for your faithful support of this ministry.

STOP THE BLEED

By Becki Doden

Stop the Bleed is a national awareness campaign and call-to-action!

The intention of Stop the Bleed is to educate, equip, and empower bystanders to help in a bleeding emergency before professional help arrives. No matter how quickly emergency professionals arrive, bystanders will always be first on the scene. First responders take an average of seven minutes to arrive, but a person can die from blood loss within five minutes! Therefore, it is important to quickly stop bleeding. 20% of deaths from injuries could have survived with quick bleeding control.

Since Stop the Bleed was launched in 2017, over 1 million people have been trained. However, the Committee on Trauma takes this call to action seriously. Their goal is to train every American in basic bleeding control techniques and place bleed control kits in every public venue, including schools, stadiums, and churches. Our security team already has kits in place at Foundry Church.

On Saturday, March 14th, Foundry Church is offering a Stop the Bleed class lasting approximately 90 minutes. Following a presentation, you'll gain the ability to recognize life-threatening bleeding and intervene effectively. You will learn three quick techniques to help save a life: (1) How to use your hands to apply pressure to a wound; (2) How to pack a wound to control bleeding; and (3) How to correctly apply a tourniquet. Please RSVP at <https://www.eventbrite.com/e/stop-the-bleed-registration-91697956055>.

Those nearest to someone with life threatening injuries are best positioned to provide first care. Take the course and become empowered to make a life or death difference when a bleeding emergency occurs. Stop the Bleed. Save a Life!

The "Stop the Bleed" campaign was initiated by a federal inter-agency workgroup convened by the White House National Security Council Staff. The Department of the Defense owns the "Stop the Bleed" logo and phrase*

We had a great time at our snow shoeing activity in February. Thanks to Kevin Donaldson heading this up and to all of our adults who helped chaperone. It was so much fun!

We will continue to meet each Monday evening from 6:30-8:00pm. However, we will be taking the Monday of Spring Break off and will not be meeting.

If you have any questions or are interested in becoming a part of our Middle School team, contact Trevor.

High School

by Mark Sue

Welcome, to some new volunteers!

This past month of youth ministry has been our best ever, and a lot of that has to do with the involvement of a new pair of volunteers in our youth ministry. Matt and Mary Kousoulos are a young married couple that recently moved to Bend from Wyoming. Within a couple weeks of being here, they formed a special attachment to our high-schoolers through spending time, having fun, building trust, and praying daily. With Matt and Mary joining our team along with Chris Leighton and Brandon Roberts, we've been able to split up into smaller groups than we have before and deepen the quality of our discussions. It's amazing how God brings us exactly what we need when He decides we are ready for it!

I'd like to ask you all, our church family, to continue to pray for our teenagers. Through the conversations we have had this past month, I was reminded that the challenges and difficulties that our teenagers are facing today are very powerful and very significant. They desperately need the power of Christ and the support of a loving church family.
