CHURCH LIFE

ONE OF EACH

If you missed our church family potluck on March 1, you might not have heard that the Kerrs are expecting a boy and a girl. It was revealed in an exciting and dramatic cake cutting moment at the beginning of potluck. All those present clapped and "awwwed" over the news.

Today, Tim and Taneshia are asking for the prayers of their church family. Yesterday, Taneshia was admitted to the hospital in pre-term labor and two centimeters dilated. The good news, she says, her water did not break, the babies are not in distress and there are no signs of infection. The medication they have given her has slowed the contractions and she will be in the hospital at least until tomorrow. We will continue to pray for Taneshia and the twins as we wait to hear more.

PLANTING SEEDS OF HOPE AT MCLANE OPEN HOUSE

The following is an excerpt from an article written by Scott Lamm, Principal at McLane High School:

"Our partnership with Sunnyside Seventh Day Adventist Church started last year quite innocently as we were looking to support a student who was facing some interesting challenges due to changes in living conditions. Because of my friendship with the Mitchell family from Sunnyside Church, this partnership which began to support one student grew into a whole school approach.

One classroom (M-10) has been dedicated to the church in order to supply it with clothing, undergarments, socks, hygiene products, blankets, sheets, shoes, towels, food...just about everything needed to get ready for school each day. A dedicated team of volunteers under the direction of Printess Schlist and her husband, Larry, consists of Barbara and Rollie Mitchell, Jodi Liu, David and Maxine Smith, and Dianne and Bud Dickerson. Our partners come weekly with more supplies to sort, organize, and display...this is a wonderful place for students and families in need. We are proud of the Highlander Outfitters and appreciate what they do to support the students at McLane. The purpose of Wednesday's Open House is to spread our good fortune to our 10 elementary and 2 middle schools within the McLane Region. All students in our Region will now have the opportunity to benefit from this resource. Students and families in need are referred to one or two key people on each campus who verify the need and set a private appointment for each person.

We know without a doubt that students who have missed school due to the lack of clothing may now be able to come to school each day to learn. We are proud Highlanders!" (pictures on page 4)

Yesterday, 58 Fresno Adventist Academy students, teachers and parents flew from LAX for a 10-day mission trip to Urcos, Peru with the Quiet Hour Ministries. Urcos is a poor, remote village which is at 10,330 ft above sea level and is located about 45 minutes southeast of the city of Cusco. It is about a two-hour drive from the famous ruins of Machu Picchu.

This mission trip will include the construction of a church, evening evangelism meetings, medical/dental/eye clinics, and Vacation Bible School programs for the children. In addition, health and family talks will be included with the evening evangelism meetings. Eight students from FAA have been selected to preach at four separate locations while they are there.

Some of those on the trip are our own Cathie Jo Jones, Bronti Turley, the Kidwell family, the Recalde family, and the Fernandez family. Please keep them in prayer and follow the progress of this mission trip at

THE LAST WORD*Those Who Mind Don't Matter

By Gloria Yaxiri Plancarte

(from "Chicken Soup for the Soul: Think Positive for Kids")

Never apologize for showing feeling. When you do so, you apologize for the truth. ~ Benjamin Disraeli

It's hard to be the new kid in school, not knowing anyone, not knowing where to go or who to talk to. You feel lonely and lost, like you don't belong. This is just how my friend felt when he moved here to California from Mexico, and into our school, the Vaughn Next Century Learning Center. Trying to fit in but not stand out, learning a new language and making new friends.

"Everyone listen up! I would like you guys to meet Jose. He is new here at Vaughn and to this state, so be nice and show him around," said Mrs. Espinoza.

No one talked; it was silent. They looked; some stared and whispered to each other. He was wearing loose gray pants and a dirty white polo; his shoes squeaked every time he walked. Everyone would giggle at the sound, but no one would talk to him. I wondered how he felt being here having everyone's eyes on him and being laughed at. I wanted to say hi but was too afraid to be made fun of for talking to "the new kid." Every day he would sit by himself and eat his lunch quietly, not saying a word, just focusing on his food, wishing that school would be over soon. Many of the students would pass by and make rude comments about him. He would just frown and look down at the floor. I wanted to say something but again I was too afraid.

When I got home I talked to my sister about Jose. I told her about him being new and about how the students at school treated him. Then I told her that I wanted to talk to him but was too afraid of what my friends' reactions would be. She said, "If they are true friends they will stick by you no matter what, understand and not judge you, because those who mind don't matter and those who matter don't mind."

The next day I knew exactly what I was going to do. I got my lunch and walked towards Jose with everyone's eyes on me wondering what I was about to do. I sat next to him. He didn't say a word, he just kept eating his food. I decided that I was going to have to start the conversation.

"Hola Jose, me llamo Gloria quiere ser mi amigo?" He looked up at me with a huge grin on his face. I couldn't help but smile back. While we talked and ate our food together I realized that he was a very nice guy. We talked about sports, and what we like to do in our free time. We also talked about how different it is living here in California than in Mexico.

As days went on I kept talking to Jose. I noticed that I was losing some friends but some actually came to join us. Jose and I became best friends and still to this day we are best friends. From little kids in fourth grade to young adults in tenth grade, Jose has always been there for me since day one and is still there today. That's why you should never judge someone by the way they look or dress — they could end up changing your whole life.
