

There's something for everyone at Awana!

In addition to regular club meetings, there are special outings and events.

After attending three club meetings and completing their entrance booklet, your child becomes an official club member.

At that time, they can begin their handbook and start working towards achievement awards. We encourage clubbers to purchase and to begin wearing their official uniforms at the time they become clubbers.

Help your child have a great year in Awana!

Help them with their sections.

Each clubber can earn awards by memorizing Scripture or sections of the handbook or by completing projects outlined in the handbook. You can help by reviewing these Scriptures and sections with your clubber at dinner, bedtime or other times available to you.

Attend club meetings and special events. Your occasional presence at club meetings means a lot to your clubber and will encourage them!

Get to know your clubber's leader.

Each clubber is placed on a team with a team leader to encourage and guide them. Feel free to talk to them at club or to contact them between club meetings if you have questions or concerns.

Help your clubber attend extra activities, and attend them yourself.

Awana Discipline

Good discipline in Awana Clubs is required for the effectiveness of the program and the enjoyment of the clubbers.

To maintain proper behavior, we use two methods of discipline—one team wide and the other individually.

AS A TEAM, clubbers can gain points by demonstrating positive behavior. Teams will be encouraged to behave courteously and to promptly obey leaders' instructions.

AS AN INDIVIDUAL, a clubber may be disciplined using the three-count system.

First Count: The clubber is warned and asked to stop the inappropriate behavior and advised of the consequences of continuing the unacceptable behavior.

Second Count: If behavior is repeated, the clubber is taken to the director of their club, who discusses the inappropriate behavior with the clubber. The director will warn the clubber that further inappropriate behavior will result in his/her being sent home.

Third Count: The clubber will be sent or taken home. The director will explain to his/her parents what led to this action.

Coming and Going Safely

Immanuel Bible Church's responsibility for your child begins when they have entered the building. It is YOUR responsibility to drop them off and pick them up from club safely. Please make sure your child enters the building when you drop them off. We will not allow a child to leave club unless you or an identifiable alternate comes to the building to pick them up.

Please watch for kids in the parking lot!
