

Calvary Tabernacle Indianapolis, IN

Omega provided architectural design, engineering, and contract administration services to Calvary Tabernacle for the new home of Calvary Christian School and the new Family Center for the church.

The new facility is located on 13 acres at Interstate 65 and Keystone Avenue in Indianapolis. The striking, state-of-the-art Christian school facility contains 112,000 sq. ft on two floors. The First Floor of the new design has the following features: a large gymnasium that can be configured as an auditorium to seat 2,100; as a double-court basketball arena with 530 seats in telescopic bleachers; or as a single-court arena with 1,154 spectator seats. The gym features locker rooms for players and coaches. The First Floor of the school includes administration areas, nine spacious classrooms, an Art and Science classroom, a Practical Arts classroom, a two-story library/media center, and a chapel/music/choir room that seats 280. The First Level also includes a cafeteria that seats 222, plus a quiet café for teachers and parents.

The Second Floor has the following features: ten spacious classrooms, a computer lab, administration offices, nurse's room, audio/video room, and a lounge overlooking the gymnasium. The second floor includes 8,518 Sq. Ft. of unfinished space for future development and storage. This superb school design could ultimately accommodate over 800 students. The images below are from a 3D virtual computer model that was created by Omega prior to construction as part of a multimedia presentation to the congregation. Photos of the completed project are also offered below.

"We are glad to have the very capable help of Omega Church Consultants on our team as we endeavor to build our brand new Calvary Christian School and Family Life Center. It goes without saying that a project of this magnitude will require the help of the Lord, but it is also great to know that we have the architectural and design experience of Omega on our side.

Kent and Jeff Thomas, along with their staff, have worked with us to capture our vision for the project and are standing by to see it through. We are thankful for their help."
