

Clermont Christian Church
Clermont, IN

Clermont Christian Church approached Omega with needs that were very similar to those of the congregation of the Christ Lutheran Church...and shared many similar problems. The problems included inadequate education, recreation, fellowship and narthex space, as well as a building with inadequate mechanical systems, functional obsolescence, and a wet basement under the education wing.

We took members of the building committee on a tour of the recently completed Christ Lutheran project. With a few changes we were able to design a new 18,000 s.f. addition to replace the existing education wing. The project involved extensive civil engineering and close work with local permit authorities and utility companies to relocate a sewer main and electrical lines.

The education wing has been demolished and Omega is providing construction management services for the new addition. The addition includes a large narthex joining the old and new buildings, a full-court gymnasium, commercial kitchen, locker rooms, stage, offices, conference rooms, nursery and 8 classrooms. Omega is also renovating the heating and electrical systems of the remaining church facility and remodeling a residence on the property.
