Group Covenant

Welcome to our group. Congratulations on your decision to grow deeper in your relationship with God and get to know others who are on a similar journey. The following are commitments we make to each other to help us journey together.

1. I will make coming to our group meetings a priority realizing that I have something to contribute that others need and that I in turn need to receive what others have to give to me.
2. I will make an effort to be present in our discussions and activities by listening respectfully and responding lovingly, so as to ensure a safe environment for all participants. In this way I will put into practice the "golden rule".
3. I will explore honestly my next steps for spiritual growth.
4. I will participate with our group as we serve others outside of our group, at least once during our time together.
5. I will hold in confidence what is shared during our time together.

Movie Night: the small group

Michael Liljenberg

"You haven't seen (insert current movie here)? But everyone is watching it!" Movies and TV shows are the common myths of our culture. Through them Hollywood teaches our culture's ideas of right and wrong. How do we spot their distortions of the truth and keep them from worming themselves into our way of thinking? But more, we'll look at how movies can open doors to conversations about God and spiritual truths with our kids, grandkids, friends, and neighbors. We will watch a movie one week and the next week to talk about it from a worldview perspective.

Where: OCF's Fireside Room

When: Sunday evenings (movie one week, discussion the next week)

Time: 6:30 to 8:30pm on movie nights

Duration: February 18th through April 29th
