Isaiah 6:1-8

To Make Him Known: Here Am I

Have you ever wanted to see God? Do you wonder what He looks like? The Prophet Isaiah got to see God once.

Isaiah was a priest in the Kingdom of Judah. A priest's job is to carry the people's worship and sacrifices to God, and to carry God's truth and blessing to the people. You would think that Isaiah would have been thrilled to see God.

King Uzziah had just died. He had been king of Judah for fifty years, and he'd been a good king. But things in Judah weren't perfect. Under the surface, people were forgetting about God and often worshipping idols. When Uzziah's son, Jotham would die a few years later, Uzziah's grandson, Ahaz, would be a very wicked king. He would move the altar where God's sacrifices were made and replace it with an altar to the gods of Assyria.

God needed a messenger to warn people about their sin. He needed to warn people about the evil Assyrians everyone was cheering for. Where would He find someone to do it?

Then I heard the Lord asking, "Whom should I send as a messenger to this people? Who will go for us?"
I said, "Here I am. Send me."
