The Naperville Chorus will present An American Patchwork, a concert of music by American Composers on May 4, at 8:00 pm in the beautiful Wentz Concert Hall at 171 E. Chicago in Naperville on the campus of North Central College.

This concert will present a wide range of music by American composers, including arrangements of music by such well-known composers as Aaron Copland and Stephen Foster as well as a composition by Randall Thompson. Works by modern composers will not be ignored with selections from Mark Lathan and Ola Gjeilo among others. American composers have also enjoyed setting some of the nonsense poetry of Lewis Carroll to music and you will get to enjoy these amusing settings.

These are just a sampling of the musical treats in store for you at the May concert. You will hear old favorites in new settings and music that well may become favorites in the future.

Sign-up in the Fellowship Center, beginning March 24!
