

PPUMC Safe Sanctuaries Policy

INTRODUCTION

The General Conference of The United Methodist Church, in April 1996, adopted a resolution aimed at reducing the risk of child sexual abuse in the church. The adopted resolution includes the following statement:

Jesus said, "Whoever welcomes (a) child. Welcomes me." (Matthew 18:5). Children are our present and our future, our hope, our teachers, our invitation- they are full participants in the life of the church and in the realm of God.

Jesus also said, "If any of you put a stumbling block before one of these little ones... it would be better for you if a great millstone were fastened around your neck and you were drowned in the depth of the sea." (Matthew 18:6). Our Christian faith calls us to offer both hospitality and protection to the little ones, the children. The Social Principles of The United Methodist Church state that "...children must be protected from economic, physical and sexual exploitation, and abuse."

Tragically, churches have not always been safe places for children. Child sexual abuse, exploitation and ritual abuse (ritual abuse refers to abusive acts committed as part of ceremonies or rites', ritual abusers are often related to cults, or pretend to be) occur in churches, both large and small, urban and rural. The problem cuts across all economic, cultural and racial lines. It is real, and it appears to be increasing. Many annual conferences can cite specific incidents of child sexual abuse and exploitation in their churches. Virtually every congregation has among its members adult survivors of early sexual trauma.

Such incidents are devastating to all who are involved: the child, the family, the local church and its leaders. Increasingly, churches are torn apart by the legal, emotional, and monetary consequences of litigation following allegations of abuse. God calls us to make our churches safe places, protecting children and other vulnerable persons from sexual and ritual abuse.

God calls us to create communities of faith where children and adults grow safe and strong. (From The Book of Resolutions of The United Methodist Church 1996. Copyright © 1996 by The United Methodist Publishing House. Used by permission, [pp.384-386])

Thus, in covenant with all United Methodist congregations, we adopt this policy for the prevention of child abuse in our church.

PURPOSE

Our congregation's purpose for establishing this Child Abuse Prevention Policy and accompanying procedures is to demonstrate our absolute and unwavering commitment to the physical safety and spiritual growth of all of our children and youth.

9. PROCEDURE FOR REPORTING ALLEGED ABUSE

Priorities:

Pittman Park United Methodist Church must set priorities in dealing with the matter of a child abuse situation, sexual or otherwise. The right of the victim to remain private in their disclosure and know they will be received with love and care is paramount and should prevail against all other interests. The accused has a right to due process involving a fair, unbiased collection of facts by trained personnel in an atmosphere that does not render the process void of credibility. It should follow closely second to the first. Finally, it is understandable the church, whether it is PPUMC or UMC in general, has a responsibility to protect the good name of the organization in order to successfully continue in ministry. This priority should never be put above the first two. To do so would be unethical and arguably unholy. A proper reporting and handling procedure, open to the congregation and public will dispel any “bad press” the church could receive from public disclosure. Rarely is it the crisis that causes suspicion, but the response to the crisis.

Participants:

A central person should be designated as Safe Sanctuary Coordinator (SSC) should be the person to whom an accusation is made. That person should be an active church member who is not a member of the church staff, a chair of any committee, nor hold any leadership role in the church. However, it is highly recommended the central reporting person have a history of leadership roles in the church, but not currently serving in such a position. Such ensures the congregation is dealing with the report and not just the staff or insiders.

An adjunct committee should be formed consisting of the Senior Pastor, Associate Pastor, Youth Minister, Children’s Ministries Director and Staff-Parrish Committee Chair or Designee and Administrative Board Chair or Designee, Sunday School Superintendent and PPEC Superintendent. This committee, the Safe Sanctuaries Adjunct Committee (SSAC) should be the recipient of the accusation from the central reporting person if that person is actually the first to receive the report.

The church should be prepared to offer the services of an outside, independent counselor to the victim at the appropriate time, but not immediately following the report or during the initial reporting process.

Pittman Park UMC Safe Sanctuaries Policy

Process:

The church body should be educated on who the SSC is, the SSC's function, and how to contact them. That contact information should be readily available in a number of areas about the church facility. If that person is in fact the initial recipient of the information, they must receive and document the initial facts without asking probing questions and without the offer of counseling.

Once the victim has left the initial reporting process and without delay the SSC should then begin to contact a member of the SSAC. The member contacted, if not the Senior Pastor, should contact the Senior Pastor (or the Associate Pastor if the Senior Pastor is unavailable or the person being accused) and one other member. The other member should help to notify all other SSAC members of the report. If a committee member has taken the initial report, then the central reporting person will also be notified. A report shall not be considered to have been made to Pittman Park United Methodist Church until the central reporting person or a member of the adjunct committee has been notified of the accusation.

Simultaneously the Senior Pastor should contact law enforcement and then notify as many of the SSAC committee members as possible for that same date. Approximately fifteen minutes should have elapsed since the initial report recipient made a committee member aware of the accusation. Immediately following those notifications the senior pastor should contact the District Superintendent and report the accusation and the church's response. Multiple members are notified of the accusation so that it can not be perceived that one person may have the ability to deviate from the reporting procedure and cease, delay or otherwise manipulate the process.

In the event the allegation is made against a pastor or one of the adjunct committee members, then the senior committee member will be contacted and the senior most clergy, other than the accused, will be notified and take on the duty of the senior pastor as described above. The accused will not be notified or otherwise allowed to discover the existence of the allegation.

Once completed those steps should be reported to the central reporting person, regardless of whether or not they took the initial report. That report should be specific to who has been notified and particularly who, by name and position, in law enforcement has been notified.

When law enforcement responds, the SSC should deliver the details to the responding investigator while available members of the committee are present. A record of the meeting should be made documenting what was reported to the investigator and the investigator's instructions to the church.

At no time should any member of PPUMC or its staff notify the accused of the allegation or have any conversations with or in the presence of the accused from which the accused could render a suspicion of the allegation. The safety of the victim and the accused person's right to due process hang on that single, highly important detail.

Pittman Park UMC Safe Sanctuaries Policy

Follow-up:

At no time should a discussion arise concerning the credibility of the victim, the credibility of the accused or the credibility of the facts reported by the victim be tolerated. The church should take a neutral stance giving aid and counseling to the victim and following law enforcement's directions concerning the accused. A SSAC member should be assigned to the alleged victim's family and maintain contact on a regular basis. The conference will handle counseling for the family. The report should not even be acknowledged when curious inquiries are made until the investigation is complete. Complete means a decision to not prosecute has been made by the District Attorney and law enforcement has closed their case or an arrest has occurred. If an arrest is made, then those involved in the reporting process should only acknowledge the existence of the arrest and disclose no facts which they may possess concerning the allegation. The accused still maintains a right to due process and a fair trial which includes access to an unbiased jury pool. Should a conviction occur either by trial or plea, then those involved in the reporting process should direct all inquiries to the file of the reporting law enforcement agency pursuant to the Georgia Open Records Act.

Following a procedure such as this will ensure the safety and comfort of the victim which is crucial for disclosure to occur. The accused will enjoy fair handling in a neutral, unbiased light. The good name of the church remains intact and its civil liability will be minimal. But remember, at all costs, practice overrides policy. The best written policy will leave you liable in a civil court room if you do not practice it and enforce adherence to it.
