They have two manzanas, they have fruit trees and when a good harvest they can sell the extra, but for lack of finances, the chemical applications are hard to do and the needs is there for better ideas to cultivate and get a better produce. They live in a rural area but have electricity and potable water. Men are either farmers or work for a textile company. The church is very poor and most farmers have only one manzana of land. The land is poor and they only gain enough to support the family. They are building new church because their first little church was damaged by earlier earthquake. It is being built on a new spot of donated land (1/2 donated and 1/2 they pay for) The average worker gets 2500¢ every 15 days. They pay 5¢ for eggs, 13¢ for a pound of rice and 18¢ for a pound of beans.
