Comments: After a pastor called upon their home, Moises accepted the Lord and began to change. His wife had grown up hearing about Jesus from her grandmother, but no one else in the family followed Jesus. As she saw her husband change, she decided to accept Christ as well. In the church they attended, the pastor was discipling them and after two years he felt that they were called and ready to become pastors of their own church. He has a study Bible and a concordance and receives theological training through seminars that are offered by CNPEN, the National Association of Evangelical Pastors of Nicaragua.
