

Where Do You Belong?

Communications

As a primarily volunteer based organization, SEAP is in need of communication professionals who can provide support in the areas of website programming and design, copywriting, video and photo editing and more. These needs are also found in the field, as missionaries are asking for support for their communications needs.

Missionary Care

The missionary field can be a challenging and lonely place and it is vital that missionaries feel supported by those who are stateside. This tribe will develop and implement ways to provide care for our missionary teams so they feel care from afar. The team will develop a plan that could include a variety of creative ways to walk alongside those in the field.

- Developing Prayer Teams
- Couples Counseling Resources

Education

Education is an effective way to introduce the Gospel to those who have never heard of Christ. From ESL classes to translation needs, those with a passion for education can put their interests to use by developing out resources to meet education needs in the field. Non-educators are welcome to join this tribe as well, as there is a need for people who can coordinate and manage projects.

- Short-Term Trips Focused on Teaching ESL
- Translation of Curriculum

Medical

The need for medical care is always present in the countries where SEAP works in, and providing medical services is a great way to develop relationships in the community. This tribe will identify a list of medical professionals who can come into the field to provide care, as well as be a resource for our missionaries as their own medical questions and needs arise. It is not necessary to be a medical professional, as those with organizational skills are needed as well.

- Coordinating Short-Term Medical Teams
- Resource to Address Medical Questions Virtually

Development

While missionaries raise their own salaries, they are also primarily responsible for raising funds for any projects that are needed in the field. We want our missionaries to be able to focus on doing ministry, not fundraising. This is where tribe members can make a huge difference – by identifying partners and assisting in raising funds to support vital ministry projects and church plants that are vital to continuing the work being done in the field.

- Funding for Pastoral Salaries
- Funding for Seminary Student Education

Theological Training

There is a great need to assist in the training of local men and women who have a desire to work in ministry. This tribe will address theological training needs in the field, determining what resources are needed to address training in seminaries, conferences and churches.
