Answer Key to Supplemental Admissions Questionnaire

Why are we giving you an open-book test? It's similar to a driver's license examination. You get the questions and answers ahead of time because the goal is not to flunk applicants, but rather to make sure they read and understand the lesson. Every one of these questions deals with real issues and concerns we have at Paideia School. When you read these answers which reflect the school's philosophy, you may wholeheartedly agree, you may wholeheartedly disagree, or find yourself somewhere in the middle. The Lord God (Deuteronomy 6:4-9, Ephesians 6:4) requires parents to be active leaders in the education of their children, so it is vital that you choose wisely and well. We are eager to answer any questions you may have which will help you make a good decision.

1. You would be surprised how often a parent will object to just one facet of the curriculum. They may love the reading program, but don't see why their child has to memorize, or take Latin, or wear a school-approved uniform. We have prayerfully made many choices concerning our curriculum and program, and we believe we have made sound decisions. We are constantly seeking to upgrade the curriculum and make positive changes to our program. We need parents and students to support them willingly and cheerfully in order to create a positive, harmonious campus culture.

2. & 3. There is no right answer here, of course. We simply want to know what is important to your family.

4. Conflicts should be resolved by keeping the circle of those involved as small as possible for as long as possible, in accordance with the principles of Matthew 5, Matthew 18, and Galatians 6. If you wish to express a concern to a teacher, the principal, a board member, or other parents, you must first meet with the person involved, and if an agreement cannot be reached, both parties should then approach the next level of authority. This is not easy, but it is Biblical, and it is the best path to healthy relationships. Please do not fear confrontation: our teachers are mature professionals, and they can accept constructive criticism in the same manner in which it is offered. Please do not fear retaliation: our teachers love children, and they would never take out their frustrations on their students.

Gossip, backbiting, and stirring up dissension among brothers just have no place in a Christian school.

5. Answers to this question will vary from family to family and child to child. We simply wish to get an idea of what values are important to your family.

6. Wise parents will not contribute to modern society's worship of success by paying too much attention to the outward marks of achievement. Our goal is for every student to do his best, to work up to his potential in every area. Not every student can slam-dunk a basketball, and not every student can get “straight A’s” at Paideia School. We all have our strengths and weaknesses. Our teachers will celebrate their students’ strengths even as they train them in their weaknesses – all for the glory of God and the good of the children.

7. One of Paideia School's greatest strengths is academic excellence. Our curriculum goals are relatively rigorous and demand much effort from every student. We have “set the bar high” in our academic standards. We do not intend to be “Smart-Kid Academy,” but the “average” student will have to work hard to get satisfactory grades at Paideia. We define an average grade as a “C.” Parents of students who must work harder to keep up with the academic demands may well need to limit extracurricular activities, spend extra time helping with homework each night, or even secure an outside tutor to assist the student.

8. We highly value family time and will do all we can to respect it. A balanced student has time for academic excellence, family, church and other outside activities. If your student uses the time given in class to work, normally he should not have an excessive amount of homework.

9. American education is far too fixated on grades and test scores. We don’t have grade inflation at Paideia. A grade of “C” may represent average achievement but also excellent effort by a given student. That student who is working at maximum capacity should not be made to feel inferior by the culture’s unrealistic expectations for higher marks. Students transferring to Paideia School will often find that while their GPA may go slightly down, their actual learning curve will go way up.

10. Good teachers always give individual attention to students to help maximize their potential. This applies to students with less severe learning disabilities as well. Such students are welcome at Paideia, provided they can function in a traditional classroom setting and fulfill the academic and behavioral expectations with reasonable individual attention.
