

This small group is meant simply to break the silence and welcomes LGBTQ people in any stage of their personal journey to come share their stories and pray with each other. We will maintain complete confidentiality of all that attend so if you are not out but still long for some level of silence-breaking, you can feel comfortable about coming. We will use the book by Jeff Chu, "Does Jesus really love me?: A Gay Christian's Pilgrimage in Search of God in America", as a resource for stories. Jeff Chu is a journalist that travelled all over America to interview gay Christians with widely varying stories and views.
