"...so the next generation may know..." Psalm 78:6

Let The Little Children Come

What do you do with approximately 35 infants and preschoolers, their parents (grandparents, babysitters, etc.), and one morning once a month? This is not the common question one asks themselves at work, but I am so glad that was the question we had the chance to answer this past school year.

Through the creation of Story & Play Day we were able to provide a story, craft, snack, and play time for the kids, while also equipping the adults, on a monthly basis. From August through May we focused on the theme of water. Each month we shared a Bible Story that talked about how God used water to reach someone or teach a lesson. We learned about camels drinking water, Jonah being swallowed by a great fish, Jesus walking on water, and much more.

Looking back over the past few months with this special age group, I have been greatly reminded of how beautiful the faith of a child can be. Seeing their eyes shine when they hear the truth from God's word, hearing them retell the stories to their families, and watching them discover the fun and wonder that God can bring to their lives (even as young children), reignites my passion for ministry every month! I desire to see children and their families come to know Jesus personally; my focus is creating opportunities where this can happen more often. In those opportunities the goal is to equip families to disciple their children. We can praise God because we believe this happened this past year through Story & Play Day - and we look forward to what the Lord will bring us in the next season.

"But Jesus called the children to him and said, "Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these." Luke 18:16
