GRAY2RED
 PART ONE: HEART DAMAGE

As I wrote part one, I kept thinking about men I know. So I want to open up this topic with assurance to men (and women) that I know this brings to mind that “get in touch with your feelings” stuff that many of us are uncomfortable with or avoid altogether. Kind of like certain medical procedures that involve small cameras being placed in certain areas...well, you get the picture (sorry). Even though some things may be good for us, a lot of people don't want to go there.

Whatever you decide about the colonoscopy...I don't need to know about that, but what I DO care about is that all of us are as healthy as possible in the area of our hearts. This entire series will be a very “nuts n' bolts” approach that will do us a lot of good if we'll listen and apply these principles from God. But for some of us (personally, I think most of us), there is more to do than just experiencing and applying a weekend teaching series. There are some areas where we need to go back on our timeline and deal with some cr_p we left unfinished.

And I'll challenge all of us guys that it takes a real man to be willing to do whatever it takes to become more equipped to help other people for God. That is ultimately what this is all about. The “heart” part of the heart, mind, body and soul means we have a big open pipeline of God's good love running through us. Like a big, strong, open heart vessel, we transfer His love to others.

We do three things at Vision. We GATHER, we EQUIP and we HELP. Right now, in response to where we feel God is leading, we're developing an E.P.I.C. (Equipping People In Christ) Class that will help us dig in to past damages and let God really get in there and heal us. So, my prayer is that GRAY2RED will open the door to perhaps a new perspective for the many of us. And we'll do all we need to do to become completely healed, completely equipped with strong, healthy hearts so we can more effectively help others see who Jesus really is.
