

The beginnings of an author

I guess I became a real believer in Christ through my New York church, even though I went to church while I was in New Zealand around 2010. At that time I was on legalistic side, not a firm believer at that time. I went to church and did all kinds of the religious things only because I wanted to hang with my friends all the time due to their kindness. After those periods, I moved to New York, and then joined my aunt's church for a while. Since she knew that I was a volunteer in a New Zealand Church, and that I like to help with the church, she suggested I try going to PIF, which is short for Promise International Fellowship. Hence, I tried it and I liked it due to atmosphere around the church. I joined a "Connect Group" which is a Bible study group for each semester. After a while I sensed the Holy Spirit in my heart like he was pushing me to know Jesus better, I believe, even though I didn't know how it happened. As a result I became firm believer to Christ, and I was water-baptized in PIF. After this happened, I realized that this was God's plan all along. As time goes by, my spiritual life would grow into becoming full-devoted to God, that I began volunteering in the church joyfully by becoming a greeter at PIF. Then I accidently joined the ushering team by asking Kilhwan Kim, if he could use me when it was an offering time. This is probably because I wanted to serve the church in any way I can, for "we are God's handiwork, created in Christ Jesus to do good works, which God prepared in advance for us to do" (Ephesians 2:10). A few years after, I became a devotional writer, since I wanted to be an ambassador of Christ. This is the only way that I can confess who Jesus really is. A lady in my church used to send online devotionals by e-mailing in weekday mornings. Since I liked to read the devotionals, I wanted to have a go at writing devotionals by myself. At that time I thought that I could do this for a short time, but I realized that I can write devotionals, if I set my mind to it! Thus, that's how it became my passion, 'Whoever confesses that Jesus is the Son of God, God abides in him, and he in God' 1 John 4:15. So I should be thanking God every day for putting the wisdom and the knowledge into me – "Let the message of Christ dwell among you richly as you teach and admonish one another with all wisdom... from the Spirit... with gratitude in your hearts. All Scripture is breathed out by God and profitable for teaching, for reproof, for correction, and for training in righteousness, that the man of God may be complete, equipped for every good work" (Colossians 3:16, 2 Timothy 3:16-17). Since it became my passion, I have a desire to spread them all around the world (who can understand English, of-course!). So this passion of mine can be considered as the highlight of my everyday! Thus, if you want to have a look at my devotionals, then please visit at www.facebook.com/kbpdevotionals (if you have a Facebook account). And if you like reading them, you can click 'Like' button on my Facebook devotionals page, then click 'Get Notifications' under that button! Otherwise, if you want to get them from Thursday until Monday by e-mail, then feel ABSOLUTELY free to contact me via e-mail at kevin.park91@yahoo.com! Hope you enjoy them!
