

Al Ramirez had surgery last week. Surgeons removed his stomach, but the good news is that the cancer has not spread. At this time, doctors say no follow-up treatment is planned. Al thanks God and his church family for all that are praying for his recovery.

Mark Latham— Please pray that my cousin Mike comes back to the Lord and that the Lord helps him find a place to live.

Rod & Candy Hall—Please pray for Rod's family in Idaho.

We're well aware of the problems in the world today. Yes, our culture is moving away from God at an alarming rate and the church faces a number of difficult issues. Sometimes, though, we need to focus on the positives. It's difficult for most humans to function without encouragement, and Christians are certainly no exception to that rule.

One of the brilliant aspects of God's perfectly-designed church is its familial nature. We are brothers and sisters, and as such it is left to each of us to help one another along the way as we all strive towards the same goal of heaven. It's easy for us to get caught up in our pride and try to handle the Christian walk alone, but God wants us to "bear one another's burdens" and "stir up love and good works."

But, as with all acts of obedience to Christ, we must be intentional in what we do. We must look for the good in others. Look for positive actions and attitudes in your brothers and sisters and let them know you noticed. Send your preacher a special note when one of his sermons really hits home for you. Let each of your elders know that you're praying for them and are thankful for the difficult work they do. Be sure to note ways your spouse sets a good example for you and be willing to tell him/her about them. Let your children know that you are proud of them. The power of a kind word can never be underestimated.

You can be a Barnabas and so can I. Whose day will you brighten today?

Serving Him with you,

A Wonderful Example of a Godly Man's Love for His Family

Matt Reddell

I just watched the 7 most precious people in my life drive off toward home. We had a great time this weekend and were so blessed to be together. The kids had what I perceived as the most emotional goodbye I've ever seen. As I hugged and kissed them over and over as alligator tears streamed down their faces, I thought of the military men and women who leave their families; some of whom never return, of split families and the difficulty of having to go between mommy and daddy, of so many situations where goodbyes may be quite possibly the last. For me, tonight was probably the most emotional goodbye for me as well. I love my wife and kids with all my being and realized tonight more than ever how quickly they are growing up, how independent they are becoming, how blessed I am to hear them sing songs to Jesus in the shower as they got cleaned up before loading up. God has blessed me beyond measure. I pray they all get home safely, I pray as well for God to comfort all of those momma's and daddy's who are away from their children tonight and for the children who are away from their momma's and daddy's tonight.

Casie Reddell

Aww!!! Thank you honey! Just now crawled into bed. I had a great weekend with my family at the coast. We miss you!!!! Thank you for all that you are and do for us. Be safe!
